

HAMLIN UNIVERSITY COMMUNITY CONVERSATION

Addressing Student of Color Experiences in Higher Education:

From Access and Belonging, To Engagement and Completion of the Journey

Wednesday, February 24, 2021

4:00-5:30 PM

Zoom Meeting: <https://zoom.us/j/92084083948?>

PWD: TXNXYNprWFoyS1g1SON3SjFFeUF0dz09

Webinar ID: 920 8408 3948

Passcode: PtPhx9

One of the most important and concerning realities on college campuses are the struggles of students of color. From admissions, to engagement, to retention, institutions continue to grapple with the various factors affecting students of color. One of the most important and concerning takeaways from data collected related to the pandemic was the heightened impact on Indigenous, students of color, low-income and working-class students. How higher education approaches these realities will have significant implications for its viability and effectiveness. This Community Conversation will explore the institutional challenges and opportunities associated with serving, supporting, and advocating for students of color.

Featured Presenter

Dr. Lori Patton Davis
The Ohio State University

Rose Marie Athley
Class of 2021
English Major

Maggie Struck
Assistant Professor
Education

Mai Nhia Xiong Chan
Vice President
Enrollment Management

Ryan Le Count
Assistant Professor
Sociology

Michael Riley
Class of 2012
DePaul University

Sponsored by the Office of Inclusive Excellence, the Hedgeman Center, Dean of Students Office and the Diversity Initiatives Steering Committee.